defeat for Pittsburg. The loss of the game may be very serious for Pittsburg also, since Leach became loud in the fifth inning, when he thought Camnitz safe at the plate, and said so. He was sent from the game and will likely be out for some days.

Pittsburg started badly and permitted

New York to get one run in the first inning. Murray, first up, got a base on balls, but was caught off base by Phillippe. Flynn, however, threw wild to Miller and Murray was safe at second. Seymour's single scored Murray. In the second Devlin singled, Merkie sacrifice him along and he took third on Meyers's hit, scoring latter on Wittes's his.

Pitsburg got her one run in the second. Wagner hit over Seymour's head for three bases, and the Dutchman scored on Miller's fly. New York resumed her scoring in the third, after Cannitz had relieved Phillippe. With Murray gone Seymour hit for three bases and came home on Devlin's out.

Mathewson got a great reception when he took his place on the rubber in the fourth liming. Pittsburg from this time out was helpless. Murray, first up, got a base on balls, but

New York did nothing more in the scoring line until the seventh, when she got another pair. Mathewson started the fun by hitting safe when he came first to bat in the inning. Devore fouled out, but Doyle hit for three bases, scoring the big pitcher. Murray hit a sacrifice fly on which Doyle scored. They made two more in the eighth. Bridwell, first up, hit the first ball pitched for a single. Devlin was hit by a pitched ball and Merkle moved them up by a sacrifice fly. Another sacrifice fly by Meyers sent Bridwell home and Devlin to third. Mathewson now hit for two bases, scoring Devlin with the last run of the zame.

SHIFTING JOCKBYS TO CAUSE FORM REVERSALS SCORED.

Practice Frowned Upon in the West May He Cheeked Here-Gravesend Offers 600,000 in Stakes and Purses-Will Rickard Protect Moving Pictures?

Turfmen who have been in the habit of dealy improving the form of horses, a practice long since frowned upon in the may step beyond the bounds of propriety to such an extent that a cross-exam by the stewards may be in order. At least that is the general belief at the racetrack, where glaring form reversals due to a change in riders have been seen since the opening of the season. The manipulation of the horses Berkeley and King Olympian may be used as an illustration, say many regulars. On May 14 King Olympian, carrying 118 pounds and ridden by E. Dugan, made Sweep extend himself to win handily by a ouple of lengths over a seven furlong route In 1:26 1-5. Three days later King Olympian, with the unfashionable Ural up and carrying 91 pounds, was nowhere in the Crotona Handicap, won by Mary Davis. Sut on Friday last came a shift back to Dugan, King Olympian winning a mile handicap from such shifty three-year-olds as Pretend and Martinez. Of course Dugan could not make the weight for the Crotons Handicap, but why was King Olympian ridden by Ural when other more competent lightweights remained idle?

In the case of Berkeley it may be said about in such a manner that Norbitt and Dandelion, each in competent hands, easily disposed of him. Four days later Berkeley started again with But well up and the expected transformation took place, which naturally prompted the query "Why did Moore have the mount in the previous race when several first class jockeys were avail-On the Western tracks the manipprompted action of some kind in the stewards' stand, but in the East there has never been a disposition to question the motives of owners indulging in this practice. But in view of the gossip among some of the more influential turfmen here it will not be surprising if official questions are asked in future, even though it is disclosed that nothing is wrong.

The racing on the metropolitan tracks so far has been remarkably free from inconsistent performances. As a rule the horses have run close to public form, with the result that racegoers are not without plenty of confidence. The sport has re-ceived so many hard knocks that it is the prevailing wish to keep it above reproach, and for that reason the slighest indication of sharp practice calls forth strenuous protests.

It is regretted by many that such star three-year-olds as The Turk, Grasmere. Prince Imperial, Waldo, Dalmatian and others are ineligible for the Belmont Stakes to be run next Monday. With Stuccos in added money the Belmont, it would seem, should bring together the best three-year-olds in training, but unfortunately this year's race, unless Mr. Keene s Sweep is able to start, will be saidly lacking in quality. Run for the first time in 1867, the winners of the Belmont have included such great racehorses as Harry Bassett, Duke of Magenta, Spendthrift, Inspector B, Hanover, Sir Dixon, Henry of Navarre, Bassings, Jean Beraud, Commando, Africander, Delhi, Tanya, Burgomaster, Peter Pan, Colin and Joe Madden, Last year Joe Madden's share, $22,53e, was the top notch for this event, but the added money has since been reduced one-half. From present indications if Sweep goes he will meet Duke of Ormonde, a fair colt. Starbottle, owned by Mr. Belmont, and one or two others in the selling plater class.

Jeffries will give a public exhibition in Frieco on Friday night, when the fight critics will have a chance to look him over and judge whether he is nearing his best condition or not. The fact that the big fellow is willing to submit to public inspection is a source of encouragement to his followers, who have been disturbed hitherto by many unfavorable reports. Johnson took off six pounds last week and now weighs 218. He figures that by sticking to his present system of work he will reduce to about 195 sounds in the next month. That was his weight when he beat Ketchel, and he insists that he was hever in better and he insists that he was trim than on that occasion.

Wireless. Capt. Sacket reported that he sighted a motor yach bound south burning red and two green signals at s o'clock. She was then 282 miles south of Sandy Hook. These yachts are to burn the Yachtsmen's Chub signal forward, red, green, white green and the private signal aft. Capt. Sackett evidently missed the white in the signal and did not note the other light. It is probable that this yacht was the Berneyo, as her distinguishing signal aft is yellow and that might easily be mistaken for a light on deck.
